I found myself surrounded by Indians! Henry Chacon & I met with Central American Indian pastors of Guatemala concerning setting up video Bible schools in their churches. There were Cakchiquel, Quiche, Chontal, & Kekchi pastors represented to mention just a few of their tribes. Some of these pastors traveled from as far away as 6 hours to meet with us. Veteran missionary Ronnie Gilmore set up the meeting at the "ASOCIACION INDIGENISTA DE EVANGELIZACION DE GUATEMALA" (The Indigenous Association for the Evangelization of Guatemala ) headquarters.

We presented our video Bible school (Vida) to them to train Indigenous pastors and raise up disciples in their churches. Also present were leaders from other para church ministries and the superintendent of the largest denomination in Guatemala. He represented 1,500 churches and 1,000 mission churches. We set up a lending library at the interdenominational AIDEDG headquarters where they went to work immediately making copies of our tapes and manuals. Their response and hunger to raise up mature leaders was impressive.

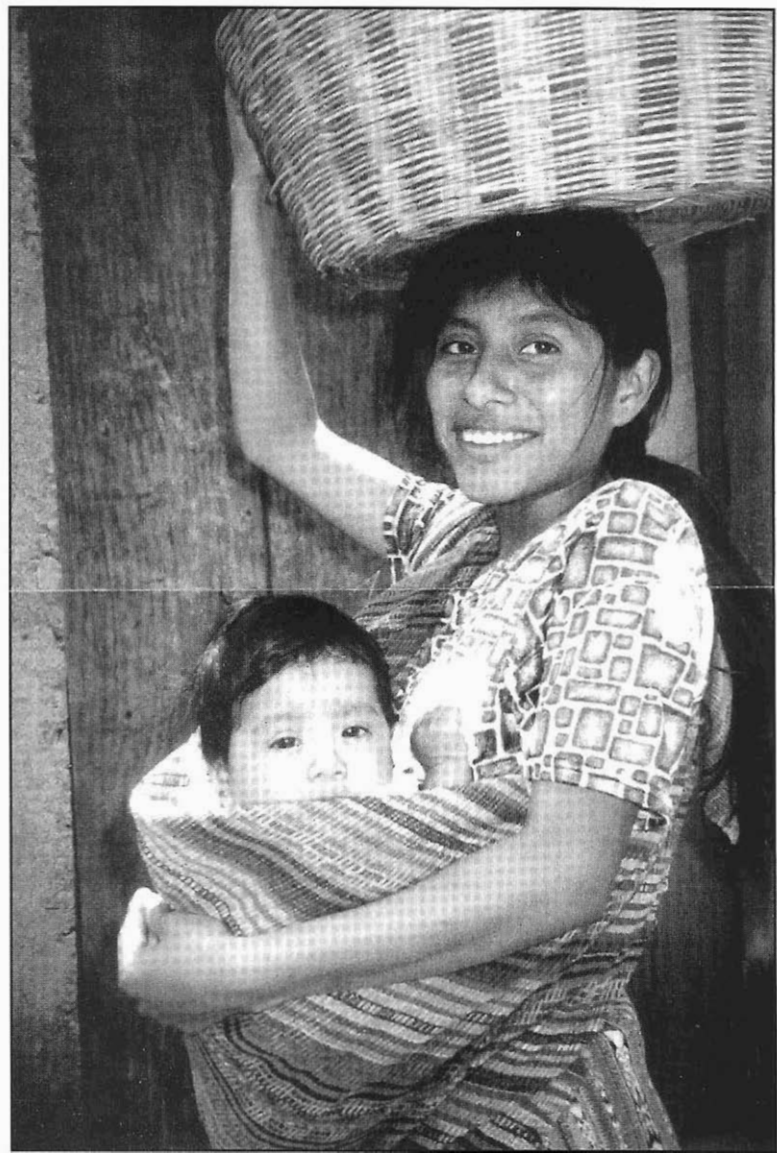

One pastor was anxious to get original copies so that he could put it on local cable in his village. Guatemala, like many other countries in Latin America now requires that pastors of churches are legally registered with the government and they are required to have formal training. Even though Vida Int'l is not accredited there are accredited institutions that will accept our courses. This opens up the opportunity for remote indigenous pastors to get formal training.

Together through the power of the Holy Spirit we are changing the eternal outcome for many. Those of you participating through your prayers and financial support are making it possible for us to follow Jesus' command to make disciples of all nations, tribes and tongues.
