Palma Real, Puerto Vallarta:

There is something exhilarating about building for the greater good. I love getting my hands dirty and throwing myself into a building project that will be a blessing to a local community and at the same time serve in the expansion of Christ's Kingdom. The strategy I love to employ is to be relevant by meeting the needs of children and their families. We do this by building a community center that has a broad appeal and reaches deep into the community. The facility then serves as a home to planting a local church. Recently, I spent a month laying the foundation for just this kind of project. We dug the holes and constructed and poured ten main footers that will support the ten main supporting columns of a three-story building. We build by faith as the Lord provides and not by bank loans. It's kinda like the saying, "How do you eat an elephant? One bite at a time."

Our plan is to build a pavilion with bathrooms. This allows us to be able to use the facility as soon as possible. Over time we will build the walls and upper floors as funds become available. We build debt free and as we are able to purchase the materials. We need your prayers to be focused on this construction project that God will send the provision to advance this mission of blessing. We also need your church group to come and get your hands dirty with us. Please contact me if you have an interested party of participants to give a helping hand and your church is willing to contribute to the purchase of the building materials. To God be the Glory for the great things He is doing as we work together for the greater good. Thank you all for making this possible.

Together We are Vida Internacional!
